

Here we are starting another year and who knows what this will hold for each of us. We are seeing new trends in equipment and I hope we see new trends in professional photography as well. I think many photo buyers are getting discouraged with crappy Royalty Free images from amateurs that turn out not to be a bargain at all. I hope all photo buyers realize the value of dealing with a professional who has the wherewithal to invest in professional equipment.

Tell me what you think. What trends do you see for 2014?
